

The Dangle Trio

Objectives

Setting and Resetting Effective, Stretch Goals
Practicing/Maintaining Supportive Behaviors
Enhancing Levels of Trust

The Outline

The challenges begin with the group focusing inward to develop personal goals based on their desired outcome. They must then find those with similar goals to form action teams of two or three. The teams' goals pave way to the group goal of overall attained height. With the map in place the group must execute under a time constraint to achieve the desired results while continuously assessing their goals, monitoring safety, and maintaining moral. The beams are inlayed with reminders to communicate, persevere, and celebrate.

The Outcome

- A sense of interdependence among team members
- Accountability of individuals to both team and leaders
- Repetitive face-to-face interaction to promote team goals
- Development of social skills needed for collaboration, and critical analysis of group processes
